

The lists are divided into two parts. The first section contains a list of books that are sources, source collections or books that have collections of sources, source-based exercises or have sources that could be used to construct exercises similar to those used for these papers. The general books provide a possible range of books that could be used by students and teachers in preparing for the examination and the standard texts should give some idea of the depth of knowledge students need for these papers. Where similar topics are also offered for F961 and F962 teachers should also consult those lists which often offer more detailed studies.
