SECTION C – Mass Media

If you choose this section answer all four questions.

Interview with a sociology teacher

I agree with Trowler, that in today's world the internet is full of digibabble. This includes digital junk created by people with limited skills and knowledge influencing the content of the media. This means the internet has some information that is untrue, such as some entries in Wikipedia. I feel another example of digibabble is blogs written by people who are not experts. When I was a student you could trust the newspapers to get your information.

SECTION E – Crime and Deviance

If you choose this section answer all four questions.

Young people and crime: a police officer's view

I think young people are more likely to commit crime than adults. Adults commit crime to feed their families. Young people commit crime because their friends get them involved and they do it to look good. Some have nothing better to do. Their crimes are often petty, such as graffiti, but they do not seem to care about the harm they cause.
