

Switching to OCR from Pearson

Introduction

We've developed a specification designed to be accessible and engaging at GCSE level, focussed on key English skills that students will use whatever path they choose to pursue. Through their study of and engagement with non-fiction and literary texts, students will develop critical reading skills which will also inform and improve their writing skills. So why choose OCR's GCSE English Language?

- There are two exams: one focusing on non-fiction texts and writing tasks, the second focusing on literary texts and creative writing tasks. Both exams put equal emphasis on reading and writing skills.
- Clear, well balanced exam papers that mirror each other in terms of format and weighting.
- The choice of writing tasks on each exam allows students to opt for a focus that best allows them to demonstrate their skills as writers.
- Students develop their creative and imaginative writing skills and the ability to write accurately for a range of purposes and audiences,
- The study of authentic and engaging unseen texts from the 19th to 21st centuries can be effectively integrated with the GCSE (9-1) English Literature course.
- A comprehensive range of creative, well researched resources to cover every aspect of the course, from candidate exemplars to specific skills development to handy revision and reference guides.

How do I find out more?

A total of 4 hours' assessment time: 2 hours for each paper.	A total of 3.75 hours' assessment time: 1 hour 45 mins for Paper 1 and 2 hours for Paper 2.
Each paper is worth 50% weighting overall.	Paper 1 (fiction prose) is worth 40% weighting overall and Paper 2 (non-fiction) is worth 60% weighting overall.
Each paper features two unseen texts for balanced assessment, including a comparison question.	Paper 1 features one unseen text and Paper 2 features two unseen texts. This means that skills in comparing texts are only weighted and assessed in one of two papers.
Language and structure are assessed together: no separate structure question	Language and structure are assessed together: no separate structure question

Writing tasks do not include any visual prompts.	Imaginative writing task includes visual prompt.

Content

The key content and skills to be covered by all new GCSE (9-1) English Language specifications mean it's simple and straightforward to move to a different exam board, even if you're halfway through a course. If you're thinking of making a move from Pearson to OCR for GCSE English, there are some key similarities in the teaching and assessment of the course:

Key subject requirements

- Read fluently and critically, a wide range of texts from the 19th, 20th and 21st centuries, including literature and literary non-fiction as well as other writing such as journalism or travel writing.

Key skills

- Read and evaluate texts critically and make comparisons between texts
- Summarise and synthesise information or ideas from texts
- Use knowledge gained from wide reading to inform and improve their own writing
- Write effectively, accurately and coherently for different audiences and purposes, using standard English appropriately
- Use grammar correctly and punctuate and spell accurately
- Acquire and apply a wide vocabulary, alongside a knowledge and understanding of grammatical terminology, and linguistic conventions for reading, writing and spoken language
- Listen to and understand spoken language and use spoken standard English effectively.

Assessment

Want to switch to OCR?

If you're an OCR-approved centre, all you need to do is download the specification and start teaching.

Your exams officer can complete an intention to teach form which enables us to provide appropriate support. When you're ready to enter your students, you just need to speak to your exams officer to make estimated entries then final entries by the specified deadline ahead of the examination session.

If you are not already an OCR-approved centre, please refer your exams officer to the centre approval section of our website.
