Record of Evidence

Description of what was observed. The observation statement can either be provided below or attached as a separate document. You must identify where evidence links to AC.
AC 1.1 Jon has been taking part in follow-up activities as part of the recent residential activity week. I have observed him each day this week when we have read together his personal Diary Record about his recent residential activity week. He has listened carefully to the account and description which described what he had done each day and has clearly indicated his interest in the text. After the first initial read of the text it was clear that Jon was pre-empting and anticipating the text that would be read next, describing the following day, Thursday's activities. As we finished reading about the water based activities on Wednesday he began by being still, then smiled broadly and laughed as we turned the page to read about Thursday's activities which involved going to the local pub for a meal.

LIFE AND LIVING SKILLS RECORD OF ASSESSMENT & EVIDENCE

AC 2.1 Jon has been actively working within a small group of students during daily registration period to identify their individual first names from a selection of other names shown on the interactive whiteboard.

Jon has responded to reading by recognising his own name from options given, using 'eye pointing' to make the identification. He has selected his name from up to four different names shown in different fonts and colours, as well as the names being re-ordered each day. Therefore demonstrating his understanding of what he was reading.

AC 3.1 Jon completed a college link course last term with other students from his group. During the college link he used a touch screen and "writing with symbols" programme to correctly match four different symbols and words. (Tutor observation statement attached)

Tutor Observation Statement

Student Name: Jon Smith

Observer Name: Bryan George

Date of observation: 26th June 2013

Jon has completed a six week college Link Course this term. He has worked alongside students from other centres as well as students from the Living Skills College.

In the final week of the course all of the students were asked to reflect and think about the activities and parts of the course that they had most enjoyed.

Jon used a touch screen and 'writing with symbols' programme to communicate his personal choice. He indicated his selection by matching the following symbols and words - 'friends, mini-bus, cooking, and music.'

Well done Jon - great course!
