THE ECONOMIC IMPACT OF HOLIDAYS AND LEISURE TRAVEL

BIG PIT

Big Pit is a real coal mine in South Wales and is one of Britain's leading mining museums. With facilities to educate and entertain all ages, Big Pit is an exciting and informative day out.

5

Entrance to Big Pit is free and visitor numbers are over 1.5 million per year. Partly because of its educational value, the vast majority of its income comes from a subsidy provided by the Welsh Assembly government. In 2009–10, this subsidy accounted for over £25m and represented over 80% of Big Pit's revenue.

10

BED AND BREAKFAST

Mr and Mrs Parry use part of their home in South Wales as a small bed and breakfast business. It is located in an area which is popular with walkers and birdwatchers. However, Mr and Mrs Parry are struggling to make the business profitable. Despite not increasing their prices for the last three years, they have struggled to fill all of their rooms on a regular basis. The number of tourists staying with them has actually declined but their costs have risen significantly. Increases in heating costs, food bills and Council Tax are all making it very difficult to stay in business and they have been focusing on simply avoiding a loss and surviving as a business in the short run. It is also difficult to plan ahead as many tourists are leaving their bookings until the last minute or cancelling at short notice.

The coastal area in which Mr and Mrs Parry's business is situated has plenty of other bed and breakfast establishments, as well as hotels and camping and caravan sites. Several local competitors have already stopped operating as bed and breakfast businesses and Mrs Parry is not optimistic about the future.

40

“The major financial problems are the Council Tax, the cost of advertising and the cost of complying with health and safety regulations. If we operate as a business, we have to pay these bills no matter how many paying guests we attract”, said Mrs Parry.

The changes in the pattern of tourists visiting Wales can be seen in Fig. 1.

	2005	2006	2007	2008	2009
ALL UK DOMESTIC TRIPS TO WALES (MILLIONS)	39	36	32	32	33
% OF UK DOMESTIC TRIPS TO WALES FOR HOLIDAY PURPOSES	80%	81%	82%	82%	84%

TOURISM UNDER THREAT IN WALES

A recent study estimated that tourism in Wales accounts for 13.3% of its GDP 55 and 12.7% of total employment. Tourism expenditure is estimated to account for 10% of all spending on transport and retail items in Wales.

The biggest threats to tourism in Wales 60 in the immediate future are rising costs, and a reduction in the number of visitors and how much they spend.

Costs are rising rapidly in every part of the industry. Taxation and business 65 rates have increased, as well as soaring food and energy prices. When real incomes fall, people reduce the number of holidays they take and the amount of money they spend whilst on holiday. 70 There are signs that holidays in Wales may be on the decline.

The Wales Tourism Alliance, a representative body of 23 organisations covering the whole of the tourism 75 industry in Wales, is very clear that it is not arguing that the tourism industry should receive state funding ahead of areas such as health or education. Instead, it argues that investment in tourism now will enable the government to have more to spend on hospitals and schools in the future. 80

The relative importance of tourism to a number of different European countries 85 is shown in Fig. 2.

COUNTRY	TOURISM AS % OF GDP
Croatia	25.5
Cyprus	21.4
Germany	8.6
Montenegro	24.6
Spain	17.2
UK (including Wales)	9.2
Wales	13.3
